NAVY DEPARTMENT NOTIFIED OF THE ATTACKS MADE

ADMIRAL WILLIAMS UNCERTAIN AS TO NUMBER KILLED, MAY BE LARGE

CANTONESE (SOUTHERN) TROOPS ATTACK STANDARD OIL HILL, NANKING

British and American warships shelled Nanking, China, today.

Cantonese soldiers rioted in the city.

The British consulate was sacked.

Foreigners sought refuge on a hill where are located several Standard Oil buildings.

Six American warships, three at Pearl Harbor and three at Manila, were ordered to Shanghai today.

American and British warships were ready at Shanghai to proceed up-river to Nanking.

American and British landing parties were ashore at Nanking to rescue the beleaguered foreigners.

Washington, March 24.—(UP)—A number of American civilians have been killed or wounded during an attack by the Cantonese (southern) troops on Standard Oil Hill, Nanking, Admiral C. S. Williams, commander in chief of the Asiatic fleet, notified the navy department today.

According to Admiral Williams, the number of Americans is uncertain, but it is feared to be large.

During the attack, the British cruiser Emerald and United States destroyers Noa and Preston opened fire and sent landing forces to the rescue of foreigners.

The Noa and Preston were hit many times during the attack. One American soldier was wounded. The landing forces from the American ships, combining with the British, successfully rescued all foreigners from the Standard Oil house, including the American consul and his family. During the afternoon, the Cantonese troops looted the American, British and Japanese consulates, killing the Japanese consul and wounding the British consul general.

All missions at Nanking have been looted. Forty-five American women, many children, and 90 men are still in Nanking and Admiral Williams expressed grave fears as to their fate.

Admiral Williams' dispatch to the navy department said in part:

"At 5 P. M. the Preston and the Noa ceased heavy gunfire and the British cruiser Emerald sent a landing force to a wall under the Standard Oil house while the Emerald covered with shrapnel and while sailors aboard the Noa and Preston cleared the bund and far shore of snipers. The landing forces successfully brought off all foreigners from the Standard Oil house. The Noa and the Preston were hit many times during the day. In the afternoon, the Cantonese troops looted American, British and Japanese consulates, wounded the British consul general and killed the Japanese consul. A number of American civilians have been killed and injured. The number involved is uncertain, but it is feared that the number is large. The missions have been looted."

Shortly after the attacks, Rear Admiral H. H. Hough, commander of the Yangtze patrol, arrived aboard the U. S. S. Isabel with reinforcements.

This is the first time since 1913 that the American navy has opened fire on foreigners with their big guns. Both the Noa and the Preston used 4-inch shrapnel shells during the battle and it is believed inflicted heavy casualties upon the Chinese.

The last big peace-time attack by the navy occurred in 1914 during the shelling of Vera Cruz.

HAVE ANALYSIS OF TISSUES OF BODY FOUND

TO DETERMINE HOW MRS. K. M. HOUCK CAME TO HER DEATH

POLICE KEEP YOUNG PSYCHIATRIST HUSBAND UNDER SURVEILLANCE

Washington, March 24.—(UP)—Scientists today conducted elaborate analysis of the tissues of the body of Mrs. Knute M. Houck, to determine if she came to her death by violent means, while police of Albany, Ore., kept her young psychiatrist husband under surveillance.

Following the discovery of Mrs. Houck's body in the Anacostia river yesterday more than three months after she disappeared from her home here, District Attorney Peyton Gordon announced that Houck would not be returned across the continent, at least until an inquest was completed.

Inquest will be held over the body of the pretty woman after the analysis is made. The scientists hope to discover from a study of the tissues whether foul play or drowning caused death. Physicians meanwhile asserted that "it looks like a pure case of drowning."

Discovery of the woman's body ended a search that started shortly after Dec. 17, when she, her husband and their two year old son all disappeared after a violent quarrel. The child was found in the home of friends, and Houck was discovered on the streets of Hormell, N. Y., babbling of "ten thousand dollars."

Returned here, Houck slowly regained his mental equilibrium and finally was pronounced sane, as police sought in vain to discover the fate of his wife. Houck admitted having beaten her. Then, he said, he became unconscious and when he recovered, his wife was leaving the house.

WOMAN AND HER LOVER IN NOT GUILTY PLEA

MRS. RUTH SNYDER AND HENRY JUDD GRAY HELD WITHOUT BAIL FOR TRIAL

STATE HOPES TO SEND THEM TO ELECTRIC CHAIR FOR MURDER OF WOMAN'S HUSBAND

By PAUL W. WHITE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, March 24.—Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray pleaded not guilty in Queens county supreme court today to the murder of Albert Snyder. They were held without bail for trial, April 11.

Their arraignment before Justice Stephen Callahan was the first step in the legal process by which the state hopes to send them to the electric chair for the murder of Mrs. Snyder's husband, who has found in bed at his home in Queens Village, last Sunday, beaten, chloroformed and strangled.

It was indicated each of the illicit sweethearts would base a defense on the plea that the other was responsible.

Mrs. Snyder, in an interview in her cell, denied emphatically that she participated in the murder. Gray's attorney said his client was irresponsible and that his mind had disintegrated because of his association with Mrs. Snyder.

The cases apparently were being handled separately. Mrs. Snyder's attorneys pushed her into the foreground through an interview, in which she dramatically gave her side of the case, repudiating her confession of guilt as the result of police "brutality" and declaring she was "terribly sorry it all had happened." Gray was being kept decidedly in the background.

He was visited yesterday by Mrs. Catherine Gray, his aged mother. She begged him to say he had not killed Snyder, but he refused to do so. He also renewed his frank admission of the slaying when Haddon Gray, an old school friend but not a relative, who had helped him establish his fruitless alibi, entered his cell.

Haddon Gray and a friend, Harry Platt, were brought here from their Syracuse homes to testify before the grand jury. Haddon explained that Henry had told him he wanted the alibi merely because he was going to meet a woman and did not want his wife to know. Both Haddon Gray and Platt were exonerated of any blame in connection with the murder.

A total of $52,000 in insurance was owned by Snyder. It developed today, and it was believed all of it would go to his estate.

LEGISLATORS AGREE ON HIGHWAY TAX MEASURE

AMENDMENT SO PROVIDING WAS PASSED BY VOTE OF 82 TO 43

GENERAL ELECTORS IN 1928 TO VOTE ON NEW ALLOTMENT OF GASOLINE TAX

St. Paul, March 24.—(UP)—Rural and city members of the Minnesota house of representatives compromised late Wednesday on the highway tax bill when an amendment was passed 82 to 43, which provided that city streets would be considered as highways.

General electors will vote on an amendment to the constitution in 1928 which would provide that two-thirds of the gasoline tax be allotted to the trunk highway fund and the remaining one-third to the counties. The bill at present considers streets in towns or cities as highways.

Further consolidation of state departments was suggested in a late senate bill, presented by the committee on civil administration, calling for a union of the agriculture department and the dairy and food department.

More complete centralization of reports made to the department of administration and finance and the abolition of the state board of visitors is also suggested in the measure.

Purebred sires on Minnesota farms was given the sanction of the senate finance committee when Sen. A. J. Rockne, Zumbrota, suggested a recommendation for a $10,000 fund to be used for the propagation of the stock by the State Livestock Breeders' Association.

Sen. Rockne's recommendation provided for an additional sum apart from the $10,000 already agreed upon for club work among boys and girls of the state.

SEEK NATIONAL AID FOR AGRICULTURE

St. Paul, March 24.—The Minnesota state senate today unanimously adopted a joint resolution authorizing the formation of an agricultural commission which will strive to secure national legislation for the aid of agriculture.

Gov. Theodore Christianson, Commissioner of Agriculture N. J. Holmberg and three citizens appointed by the governor would comprise the commission.

A companion measure appropriating $10,000 for the use of the commission, is now in the hands of the finance committee, but will not be acted upon until the house of representatives and the governor have given their approval to the resolution passed today.

The commission is to work with like bodies of other states and with individuals representing states, to secure national legislation for the aid of agriculture, and to bring the agricultural industry on a parity with other industries.

Two other measures of prime importance to rural Minnesota were presented in the senate which concerned the dairy and meat industries.

Sen. Henry Ahrens, Jordan, introduced a measure providing that all firms, making, buying or selling dairy products, must make complete report to the dairy and food commissioner, of buying and selling prices and handling costs of their products.

Sen. A. L. Thwing, Grand Rapids, offered a bill which would require all retail meat dealers to secure annual licenses at a cost of $10.

A severe storm blew all night in that region.

ALL FOREIGNERS ORDERED BROUGHT TO THE WARSHIPS

IF NOT DONE BY 10 O'CLOCK TOMORROW MORNING, BOMBARDMENT WILL BE LAUNCHED

WILL THEN TREAT THE CHINESE CITY OF NANKING AS A MILITARY AREA

Shanghai, March 25.—(Friday 1:30 A. M.)—All Americans in the interior of China today were advised by United States Consul General Clarence E. Gauss immediately to evacuate the area.

Gauss broadcast all his messages from the wireless of the U. S. S. Pittsburgh.

Washington, March 24.—(UP)—Joining forces with the British, American naval officers at Nanking issued an ultimatum to the commanding officer of the Cantonese forces notifying him that unless all foreigners are brought safely to the British and American warships by 10 o'clock tomorrow morning they will open fire upon Nanking and treat it as a military area, according to advices received by the navy department today from Admiral C. S. Williams, commanding American forces there.

Word of the ultimatum followed a report from Williams that American civilians had been killed or wounded at Nanking. He feared the number was great.

The Chinese general was given until 11 o'clock tonight to appear on board the British cruiser Emerald to start negotiations. The British and American forces demand immediate protection of all foreigners and foreign property and that all foreigners must be brought to the water front under escort by 10 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Firing is still going on at Nanking from both banks of the river against the American ships and the British cruiser, Admiral Williams reported. Outrages are continuing in spite of every possible effort on the part of the American officers and others to get in touch with some responsible Cantonese official to assure safety to all foreigners.

Admiral Williams further reported the fate of American women and children totalling 155 still left in Nanking to be uncertain. He expressed grave fears as to their safety.

American refugees rescued by the British and American landing forces from the Standard Oil house in Nanking, are being forwarded to Shanghai tonight on board the steamers Kungkwow and Wenchow.

Lt. Commander R. C. Smith, Jr., is in command of the Noa, and Lt. Commander G. D. Ashe, is commanding the William B. Preston. Rear Admiral H. H. Hough is aboard the Isabel with Lt. Commander E. F. Stone, in charge.

Washington, March 24.—American and British forces will open fire on Nanking at 10 A. M. China time, March 25, unless all foreigners are safely escorted to U. S. and British refuge ships there by that time, under an ultimatum issued by British and American navy men to the Cantonese at Nanking today.

Ten o'clock A. M. tomorrow in Nanking will be 9 P. M. tonight eastern standard time.

Meantime, the Cantonese are ordered to start their negotiations for safe escort by 11 o'clock P. M. China time tonight—10 A. M. eastern time today.

WOMAN AND HER LOVER IN NOT GUILTY PLEA

MRS. RUTH SNYDER AND HENRY JUDD GRAY HELD WITHOUT BAIL FOR TRIAL

STATE HOPES TO SEND THEM TO ELECTRIC CHAIR FOR MURDER OF WOMAN'S HUSBAND

By PAUL W. WHITE (United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, March 24.—Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray pleaded not guilty in Queens county supreme court today to the murder of Albert Snyder. They were held without bail for trial, April 11.

Their arraignment before Justice Stephen Callahan was the first step in the legal process by which the state hopes to send them to the electric chair for the murder of Mrs. Snyder's husband, who has found in bed at his home in Queens Village, last Sunday, beaten, chloroformed and strangled.

It was indicated each of the illicit sweethearts would base a defense on the plea that the other was responsible.

Mrs. Snyder, in an interview in her cell, denied emphatically that she participated in the murder.

Gray's attorney said his client was irresponsible and that his mind had disintegrated because of his association with Mrs. Snyder.

The cases apparently were being handled separately. Mrs. Snyder's attorneys pushed her into the foreground through an interview, in which she dramatically gave her side of the case, repudiating her confession of guilt as the result of police "brutality" and declaring she was "terribly sorry it all had happened." Gray was being kept decidedly in the background.

He was visited yesterday by Mrs. Catherine Gray, his aged mother. She begged him to say he had not killed Snyder, but he refused to do so.

He also renewed his frank admission of the slaying when Haddon Gray, an old school friend but not a relative, who had helped him establish his fruitless alibi, entered his cell.

Haddon Gray and a friend, Harry Platt, were brought here from their Syracuse homes to testify before the grand jury. Haddon explained that Henry had told him he wanted the alibi merely because he was going to meet a woman and did not want his wife to know. Both Haddon Gray and Platt were exonerated of any blame in connection with the murder.

A total of $52,000 in insurance was owned by Snyder. It developed today, and it was believed all of it would go to his estate.

LEGISLATORS AGREE ON HIGHWAY TAX MEASURE

AMENDMENT SO PROVIDING WAS PASSED BY VOTE OF 82 TO 43

GENERAL ELECTORS IN 1928 TO VOTE ON NEW ALLOTMENT OF GASOLINE TAX

St. Paul, March 24.—(UP)—Rural and city members of the Minnesota house of representatives compromised late Wednesday on the highway tax bill when an amendment was passed 82 to 43, which provided that city streets would be considered as highways.

General electors will vote on an amendment to the constitution in 1928 which would provide that two-thirds of the gasoline tax be allotted to the trunk highway fund and the remaining one-third to the counties. The bill at present considers streets in towns or cities as highways.

Further consolidation of state departments was suggested in a late senate bill, presented by the committee on civil administration, calling for a union of the agriculture department and the dairy and food department.

More complete centralization of reports made to the department of administration and finance and the abolition of the state board of visitors is also suggested in the measure.

Purebred sires on Minnesota farms was given the sanction of the senate finance committee when Sen. A. J. Rockne, Zumbrota, suggested a recommendation for a $10,000 fund to be used for the propagation of the stock by the State Livestock Breeders' Association.

Sen. Rockne's recommendation provided for an additional sum apart from the $10,000 already agreed upon for club work among boys and girls of the state.

SEEK NATIONAL AID FOR AGRICULTURE

St. Paul, March 24.—The Minnesota state senate today unanimously adopted a joint resolution authorizing the formation of an agricultural commission which will strive to secure national legislation for the aid of agriculture.

Gov. Theodore Christianson, Commissioner of Agriculture N. J. Holmberg and three citizens appointed by the governor would comprise the commission.

A companion measure appropriating $10,000 for the use of the commission, is now in the hands of the finance committee, but will not be acted upon until the house of representatives and the governor have given their approval to the resolution passed today.

The commission is to work with like bodies of other states and with individuals representing states, to secure national legislation for the aid of agriculture, and to bring the agricultural industry on a parity with other industries.

Two other measures of prime importance to rural Minnesota were presented in the senate which concerned the dairy and meat industries.

Sen. Henry Ahrens, Jordan, introduced a measure providing that all firms, making, buying or selling dairy products, must make complete report to the dairy and food commissioner, of buying and selling prices and handling costs of their products.

Sen. A. L. Thwing, Grand Rapids, offered a bill which would require all retail meat dealers to secure annual licenses at a cost of $10.

IN SERIOUS SHAPE FROM STAB WOUNDS

La Crosse, Wis., March 24.—(UP)—John Luke, 36, was in a serious condition here today from stab wounds alleged to have been suffered during a quarrel in a shack near Heitman's landing.

John Cherwalk, of Prairie du Chien, accused of being the assailant, is under arrest at Waukon, Iowa, and may be charged with attempted murder. His son, arrested with him, is being held as a material witness.

Luke's spinal column was severed by one of the wounds, and even if he lives, he may be paralyzed for life.

PLAY APRIL 5TH

"Who Pays the Bills" is Title of Comedy Selected for Presentation

Play Depicts Trials of an Impoverished Couple Entertaining Guests

The date for the presentation of the annual Senior class play has been set for Tuesday evening, April 5, at the Park theatre. Tickets will be out Friday noon and may be purchased from any Senior or member of the cast.

The play "Who Pays the Bills" was taken from "The Judson's Entertain" by Edith Ellis and is billed to be an exceedingly humorous one, depicting the trials of an impoverished young couple who are made to entertain a group of unexpected guests. The bills inevitably pile up and there is much worry and trouble because of the financial state of the host and hostess. The guests are from every walk of life including an actress, a descendant of a noble family and bring in the humor element of the play.

Every Senior is given an opportunity to try out for the play and as there were many more trying for parts than could possibly be accommodated it was quite difficult to make selections. Six extra characters have been added to the original eleven making a cast of 16. Prominent amateurs that have been the delight of local audiences will make their final bow in school dramas and it will be interesting to watch those who will make their initial appearance before the spot light in the performance.

Miss Mary Tornstrom, Senior advisor, is coaching the play, insuring its success from the start. Money derived from the proceeds goes towards the Senior Memorial to the high school.

It is urged that tickets be purchased early to avoid disappointment as there is always a greater demand than can be supplied.

Two weeks ago the editor of these notes suddenly developed a temperature and was taken off exercise, forced to leave the dining room and had to go to bed so there were no notes last week. He has improved however, although still kept in bed. Some say it was all caused by a pair of bright eyes that looked at him from across the table during a game of cribbage. Well, you never can tell. A pair of eyes will sometimes raise the dickens. Of course this last about the "eyes" is "applesauce" but the doctors say fruit is good for sick people—that is for patients.

Last Tuesday Gust Larson of Crosby visited with John Larson.

J. S. Spurrier, Robert Johnson and Axel Anderson all got the correct weight of the elephant in the puzzle recently appearing in the St. Paul Pioneer Press—7226 pounds. So many other contestants, however, also figured the correct weight, that there were not enough prizes, so according to the rules in case of tie, new puzzles have been sent those trying and Mr. Spurrier and Mr. Johnson are now working on them. Mr. Anderson did not send in any answer to the first puzzle so of course is out of the contest.

TAKE SALTS IF RHEUMATISM IS BOTHERING YOU

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts to Get Rid of Toxic Acid

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat no sweets for awhile, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid or body waste matter, and is often generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this toxic acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of "water" and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste and stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. —Adv.

They Said It Couldn't Be Done—But We Did It

Before we entered the retail field, hard-headed, practical business men said:

"A quality line of groceries such as you carry under the N. J. We have proved that discriminating buyers know they are practicing real economy in buying quality goods. The spectacular growth of our store in this community is a testimony to N. J. C. quality.

AMBASSADORS-AT-LARGE

THERE is a most important editorial in the current issue of The Rotarian, entitled "Ambassadors-at-Large." It tells, in short, that the American participants in conventions in Europe should "watch their step." Their actions will serve to act as advertisements of America at large, in fact, they will be ambassadors-at-large. The editorial follows:

"Sometimes we hear it said that each Rotarian is 'an ambassador to his trade association.' This is a rather magnificent way of saying that Rotary expects each member to carry to his trade whatever good he receives in the weekly club meetings. Similarly each Rotarian may be called the unofficial delegate from his own country to the other thirty-seven Rotary nations.

"These diplomats have neither the uniform nor the prestige of their country's official representatives, and are largely self-elected. But certainly they have an opportunity—and in some ways more than an opportunity—to express the best traditions of their respective nations just as the regularly commissioned diplomats who gather at courts.

"Large-scale exchange of shirt-sleeve diplomacy is one of the most interesting aspects of our times. The seven boat-loads of Rotarians going to Ostend from the United States and Canada; and the descent upon Ostend by thousands of Rotarians from other countries; the host of U. S. Legionnaires going to Paris; the crowd of Knights Templar also going east; the vivacious bands of collegians travelling in the 'tourist third'; such groups attract particular attention because of an often common identity among their membership. True, the private individual who slips unobtrusively about another land need not lack opportunity to make friends for his own country; but the other large groups have the additional advantage of special interest on the part of those nations they visit—and incidentally the additional responsibility implied.

"Rotary—with something like a fifth of its clubs outside the land of its origin—is definitely committed to international amity. Each Rotarian is an ex-officio delegate to thirty-seven nations, and can carry on either through a world tour or through chance encounters with fellow-members from other lands. The Ostend convention will afford greater scope for this sort of thing than any previous meeting. May we make the most of it."

DIVERSIFIED FARMING ON THE UPGRADE

DIVERSIFIED farming in the Northwest is on the upgrade and increased loans to farmers will be made this year, as announced by C. T. Jaffray in a statement outlining plans of the Agricultural Credit corporation.

Jaffray, who is chairman of the corporation, said demands for loans are being received daily from farmers desiring to start dairying and raising of livestock as an extension of their agricultural activities.

Reports to the corporation indicate that during the past few years farmers of the Northwest have realized substantial profits on investments in sheep, according to Jaffray. Throughout that period 123,345 sheep and 10,022 cows have been placed on the farms by the corporation. Loans to the farmers during the three years total more than $2,000,000, Jaffray announced. The maximum loan was $1,000 to any one farmer.

Since the first of the year, he said, farmers of Minnesota, North and South Dakota and Montana have made hundreds of inquiries regarding loans.

"There is greater interest among farmers in dairying and livestock than ever before," Jaffray said. "Records and testimony of the farmers show that more than $1,000,000 annually will be added to the farm income in the four states through the products of the livestock being added to farms."

AGAINST COMPULSORY INSURANCE

MASSACHUSETTS is trying out compulsory automobile liability insurance. Such proposals in other states are being met with organized resistance, and as expressed by the Industrial News Bureau, the objection is being made on the basis of common sense and appreciation of practical business methods.

Chairman H. H. Rice of the Legislative Committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, commenting on the recent rejection of such a proposal in Ohio, said:

"While we believe that many who are fostering compulsory insurance are sincere, when one analyzes the problem, its difficulties immediately become apparent. Insuring a driver against financial penalty is likely in many cases to increase his carelessness in operating a machine, and accordingly have just the opposite effect from the protection which such measures aim to give.

"The large amount of notice which the compulsory idea has attracted this year, is already arousing the public to a declaration of sentiment against the proposal. Compulsory insurance is typical of that impractical attitude of mind which thinks that anything can be remedied by a law."

ROTARIANS HONORED

THE Rotarians were honored on Tuesday when they were invited to partake of a dinner at the high school cooked and served by the teachers. It was home cooking of that excellent satisfying type which brings memories of mother's skill in the culinary art. Greater praise hath no man than to tell his wife or the teachers that they cooked as good as mother.

It has been said that the teachers look forward with pleasure to the annual Rotary banquet where the teachers are the honored guests of the evening. In like manner the Rotarians have blue pencilled a date on their desk pads which signifies proximity to the annual invitation extended by the teachers to sample their home cooking.

We predict that if there were more bachelors in the Rotary club, terrific inroads would be made on the teaching staff of Professor Cobb.

THE Fergus Falls Journal is entering loud protests against Congressman Harold Knutson for being in St. Paul in the interests of proposed state legislation instead of in Washington where the Journal says "he is paid for staying." The Bemidji Daily Pioneer comments that someone should call the attention of the Journal to the fact that Congress has adjourned and that Congressman Knutson gave up a trip South so as to come back and appear on behalf of some of his constituents.

AMERICAN TENNIS MAY SEE THE FINAL PLAY OF FOREIGNERS

NATIONAL INDOOR CHAMPIONSHIP BEING HELD AT NEW YORK CITY

7 PLAYERS FROM FIELD OF 102 STARTING TOURNEY. SURVIVED TODAY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Seventh Regiment Armory, New York, March 24.—American tennis may possibly be spared the humiliation of watching for the second consecutive year two foreign players in the final match for the national indoor championship. It was only a chance, however.

Seven players from the field of 102 which started the tournament, still survived today and of those seven two were the highly favored Frenchmen. Only two of the five Americans were classed with the real elite of the American courts.

Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, the two French stars who won an international team match against the United States in Brooklyn last week, were the ranking favorites among the survivors and they were in opposite halves of the draw.

Borotra already has reached the semi-final round but tomorrow to reach the same point of vantage will have to defeat Louis B. Dailley, Jr.

Until yesterday's match it was thought that Brugnon was a certain casualty. He had been handicapped with sore feet and strained leg muscles that had made of him almost an invalid. But in his fourth round match against Fred Anderson, the tall New York star, Brugnon showed a free physical game and the best tennis he has played since he arrived in this country.

The survivors are Dr. George King, Jack Vanryn, Louis B. Dailley, Jr., and Jacques Brugnon in the upper half and Francis Hunter, J. A. McHollan and Borotra in the lower half.

Dr. King, who knows every splinter of every board in the Seventh Regiment Armory courts, should win from the young Princeton star, Van Ryn, and enter the semi-final.

Brugnon, drawn against young Dailley, should win on the improved form he displayed yesterday, real elite of the American courts. It is an odds on favorite to beat McHollan and become a semi-finalist against Borotra.

Hunter, so far in the tournament, has shown nothing to warrant calling out the officer of the day, but Hunter isn't a savage killer and he likes to fiddle around.

Figuring all the angles, it looks as though Dr. King and Borotra might meet in the final round, although there is a tremendous upset, Brugnon and Hunter might face each other.

Borotra is still the favorite to win the championship.

INTERCLASS GIRLS' CONTESTS ARE NOW BEING HELD THIS WEEK

With the Freshman basketball team showing its superiority over the underclassmen and running off with the inter-class pennant, all interest is now centered on the outcome of the interclass girls' contests that are being held this week.

Great preference is given to the Senior squad which has proven a winning aggregation in all contests since it copied the challenge game in its freshman year. Playing for the Seniors are Hollingsworth, Beggs, Gallagher, Liners, Alcant and Storm (captain).

The coaches of interclass teams, consisting of Frankie Wise, Earl DeRocher, Bus Fitzbarriss and Walter Hautala, selected the following men for the first team: guard, Fuller, Sophomore; guard, Welliver, Junior; forward, Hautala, Freshman; (captain); forward, Purdy, Freshman; center, Swanson, Sophomore. It is highly probable that men from this line-up will see action with the regulars next year.

The Freshman played superior basketball throughout the entire tournament and without a doubt was the best team on the floor and displayed the best playing skill. The winning team was composed of Purdy, center; Hautala, forward; Marshall, forward; Goedderz, guard, and Foster, guard.

RICKARD WILL NOT RELEASE DUNDEE
FROM HIS CONTRACT

New York, March 24.—(UP)—Tex Rickard will not release Joe Dundee, Baltimore welterweight, from a contract signed to engage in two more contests, he said today.

Humbert Pugazy, rival New York promoter is trying to make a match between Dundee and Pete Latzo for the world championship but Rickard said he will go the limit to hold Dundee to his agreement.

"When I went to heavy expense in arranging a return bout between Dundee and Eddie Roberts, Dundee signed an agreement to engage in two more fights against opponents of my selection," Rickard said.

Michigan Favored to Win
Champaign, Ill.—Michigan is favored to win the seventeenth annual western conference indoor swimming meet to be held here tomorrow.

Northwestern has won the title eight times, Illinois three and Chicago and Minnesota once each.

TO USE SKY IRON TO PASS THE ROCKIES

Houston, Tex., March 24.—(UP)—A sky-iron will be the means by which Doc Grahame, Mobile golfer, will pass the Rocky mountains on his golf-driving trip from Mobile to Hollywood, he said today.

Grahame left here enroute to Crosby, Tex., a few miles from here, to pick up his trail again. At Crosby, Grahame and his caddy, "Happy" Kirby, became separated for two days and the golfer lost that time.

Today Grahame will carry on in his unique drive. He hopes to pass his 20,000 stroke before Saturday night.

Commenting on his ascent of the mountain "trap" ahead of him, Grahame said: "Think I'll just use a pitch shoi to get over that bit of rough."

Houston Homing Pigeons Speed Record

Houston, Tex.—A record speed for Houston's homing pigeons was hung up when one bird, winner of the race from Marietta, Okla., averaged nearly 70 miles an hour for the 300 miles.

Philadelphia—Tony Marullo, New Orleans light heavyweight, won a 10-round decision from Tommy Mahan, Trenton, N. J.

AMERICAN TENNIS MAY SEE THE FINAL PLAY OF FOREIGNERS

NATIONAL INDOOR CHAMPIONSHIP BEING HELD AT NEW YORK CITY

7 PLAYERS FROM FIELD OF 102 STARTING TOURNEY. SURVIVED TODAY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Seventh Regiment Armory, New York, March 24.—American tennis may possibly be spared the humiliation of watching for the second consecutive year two foreign players in the final match for the national indoor championship. It was only a chance, however.

Seven players from the field of 102 which started the tournament, still survived today and of those seven two were the highly favored Frenchmen. Only two of the five Americans were classed with the real elite of the American courts.

Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, the two French stars who won an international team match against the United States in Brooklyn last week, were the ranking favorites among the survivors and they were in opposite halves of the draw.

Borotra already has reached the semi-final round but tomorrow to reach the same point of vantage will have to defeat Louis B. Daily, Jr.

Until yesterday's match it was thought that Brugnon was a certain casualty. He had been handicapped with sore feet and strained leg muscles that had made of him almost an invalid. But in his fourth round match against Fred Anderson, the tall New York star, Brugnon showed a free physical game and the best tennis he has played since he arrived in this country.

The survivors are Dr. George King, Jack Vanryn, Louis B. Daily, Jr., and Jacques Brugnon in the upper half and Francis Hunter, J. A. McHollan and Borotra in the lower half.

Dr. King, who knows every spinner of every board in the Seventh Regiment Armory courts, should win from the young Princeton star, Van Ryn, and enter the semi-final.

Brugnon, drawn against young Dailey, should win on the improved form he displayed yesterday. He is an odds on favorite to beat McHollan and become a semi-finalist against Borotra.

Hunter, so far in the tournament, has shown nothing to warrant calling out the officer of the day, but Hunter isn't a savage killer and he likes to fiddle around.

Figuring all the angles, it looks as though Dr. King and Borotra might meet in the final round, although if there is a tremendous upset, Brugnon and Hunter might face each other.

Borotra is still the favorite to win the championship.

Miss Alice Regina Johnson Displays Mastery of Piano in Recital

WARRANTS DESERVED PRAISE

Soul Stirring Melodies Created in Artistic Presentation,
Tuesday

Miss Alice Regina Johnson appeared in a piano recital Tuesday evening at the Clara Lutheran church.

Miss Johnson has been studying piano in Chicago under Kurt Wanieck since her graduation from the local high school in 1922. As the result of a competitive examination she was chosen to appear with the Chicago Symphony last June 11 at which time she played the Grieg Sonata.

To a student of a solo instrument not a higher tribute can be paid to the performer's ability, than to receive an opportunity to appear as a soloist with a great symphony orchestra. This is the goal of the student abroad. Is is no less significant of attainment at home. The season is short, soloists' few, aspirants many.

It often has been remarked with regret that in our country athletic attainment is given acclamation above aesthetic and intellectual accomplishment. However the large audience at the recital bore testimony to the fact that Brainerd has not been indifferent to one who has an ideal, the courage of conviction and spares no effort in its attainment. More—it was felt that those who attended went in a spirit of recognition of one who had reflected credit upon the community.

All that could be wished at a recital Miss Johnson had to offer—personal charm, ability to meet the technical demands of performance, artistic interpretation, dignified and at the same time popularly comprehensible program.

A G major prelude and fugue gave the usual Bach introduction to her program. These were followed by the familiar F major Mozart Minuet. The allegro movement from the Beethoven Sonata Op. 31, No. 2 with Ecossaises in contrasting mood concluded the classical group.

Chopin, the master composer for the piano, was represented by a singing nocturne and two etudes in thirds and sixths. Although there was no ostentatious display of technique the audience could not but be aware of a sensation of excitement in noting the masterly execution of the difficulties presented by the etudes.

At the conclusion of the Chopin numbers Miss Johnson's audience was completely won. It only needed the little romantic story which she wove about her Eroica Sonata to establish a happy lack of formality. Here was a home girl playing for home folk in a home gathering place.

After the excerpt from the sonata by MacDowell, the best of American composers, the contemporary school was represented by Swiss, Finnish and Spanish composers. Although in the modern idiom, which often sounds strange, with Miss Johnson's enlightening comments these made a strong popular appeal.

As a tribute to Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone who was her teacher while at home she played the Chopin prelude in A. This was a gracious gesture on the part of Miss Johnson and one appreciated by those present as it is to be doubted if anyone has done more for music students in Brainerd where sincere and competent music teachers are all too few. Even though they were many, Mrs. Johnstone's work would stand apart proven by its results.

The program was concluded with a paraphrase by Liszt upon the familiar theme of the Rigoletto quartet. Its scintillating brilliancy lent a bright ending to one of the pleasantest musical evenings it has been Brainerd's privilege to enjoy.

"Jill" Penney, a young man from Missouri, opened a small dry goods, clothing, furnishings and shoe store in Kemmerer, then a small mining camp in Wyoming. It was known as the "Golden Rule Store."

1907

Five years later, the high ideals of storekeeping which Mr. Penney introduced and faithfully maintained, had won such signal success that two more stores were opened, operating with the same high principles.

1912

Ten years later, these business ideals had so faithfully served the public that 34 stores had been opened and were in successful operation, all known as the "Golden Rule Stores." Service was being rewarded.

1917

Fifteen years later, the greatest expansion of the business up to that time took place—50 new stores were opened, making a total of 177 stores. In 1913, the business name was changed to the J. C. Penney Company.

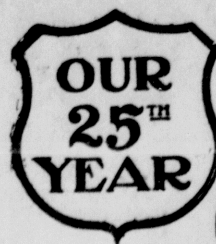

1922

Twenty years later, the number had been more than doubled in five years, giving a total of 371 stores operated from coast to coast and serving more than a million homes—a Nation-wide Institution of Department Stores.

1927

Twenty-five years, at the conclusion of quarter of a century of public service, the business is comprised of 773 stores with enough more planned to open in the Fall to well pass 800. And expansion goes on!

This phenomenal expansion and growth is due primarily to the keen appreciation the public has shown of the efforts the Company always has made to serve well and faithfully. Continued growth is assured.

BEGINNING April 1st, we will celebrate with pride and thankfulness, our Twenty-fifth or Silver Anniversary —with pride for the privilege of serving the American public—with thankfulness for the generous response that has come to our effort.

SINCE the Spring day in April, 1902, when Mr. Penney inaugurated, in a small and inconspicuous manner, a Retail Shopping Service which was destined to become one of Nation-wide Helpfulness, a quarter of a century has passed.

IT has been a period of notable growth and expansion, of winning millions of friends, of serving them faithfully, of basing achievement upon the good will of mutual satisfaction.

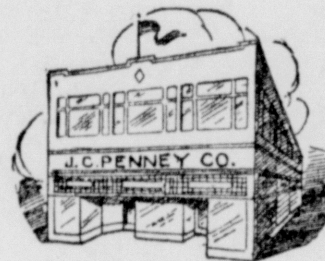

DURING all these eventful years, we have been mindful of our responsibilities to the legion of patrons who have contributed and are today contributing, so continuously and so generously, in helping making our Service one not of profit alone but of the confidence that rests on good will.

NEVER for a moment have we knowingly wavered from the responsibility of this relationship. It has always been to us an inspiration to reach out for greater things, that we might be the better prepared to render a Service which should prove to be more and more beneficial to the increasing numbers who come to us.

NOT only is that one little Golden Rule Store of 1902—now itself grown to far larger proportions—still serving the people in and about Kemmerer, Wyoming, but there has sprung from its applied principles and policies, others to a present total of 773 Department Stores, scattered over 46 States.

ALL these are children of what we now affectionately term The Mother Store; all happily operate in the Service of the public under the name of the J. C. Penney Company.

THE Founder of this Organization—Mr. James C. Penney—built in his pioneering days more enduring and substantially than he knew.

HIS ideals and practices—square treatment alike to all always—and the extent to which he packed Value into every Dollar of purchase—these constitute the pattern according to which this enormous business has been shaped and which has caused it to grow until it has now become a Nation-wide Institution, serving more than 3,000,000 homes.

THE dynamic selective and buying power of the Company created by its tremendous volume of cash sales, which in 1926, amounted to $115,682,737.86, gives a saving power to the public which means much to the thrift and to the economic life of the people of every community where it operates a Store.

AT this milestone in our history, we pause only long enough to express our thanks to the great American people for their continued confidence and appreciation of our efforts in their behalf and to offer the assurance that in the future as in the past we shall strive to serve not only well but better and better with each succeeding business day.

EXECUTIVE AND BUYING OFFICES, NEW YORK CITY

The sales of the "Golden Rule Store" of Mr. Penney, the first year amounted to $28,898.11—a fine appreciation of the few hundred people who then comprised the little mining camp at Kemmerer, Wyoming.

1907

Five years later, with three stores, the sales amounted to $166,313.82—substantial evidence of the continued appreciation of the principles and policies under which Mr. Penney's storekeeping was directed.

1912

Ten years later, with 34 stores, the business passed two million dollars in sales—attracting to it the fact that its operative plan was a great boon to people desiring to practice thrift in their purchases.

1917

Fifteen years later, with 177 stores the public was so generously appreciative of the efforts of the business as to favor it with purchases totalling $14,880,965.22. In 1913, it became the J. C. Penney Company.

1922

Twenty years later, with 371 stores, sales amounted to $49,035,729.06—closing a five-year period which had been notable for having successfully weathered the World War and witnessed continued growth and expansion to several new states.

1927

Twenty-five years later, with 773 stores in operation and more to be opened in the Fall, sales are expected to reach $150,000,000. Sales passed the One Hundred Million mark in 1926.

Had the J. C. Penney Company been less diligent in giving Quality, Style, Value, Service, at Lowest Possible Price, and serving everybody alike always, this success could not have been realized.

After the excerpt from the sonata by MacDowell, the best of American composers, the contemporary school was represented by Swiss, Finnish and Spanish composers. Although in the modern idiom, which often sounds strange, with Miss Johnson's enlightening comments these made a strong popular appeal.

As a tribute to Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone who was her teacher while at home she played the Chopin prelude in A. This was a gracious gesture on the part of Miss Johnson and one appreciated by those present as it is to be doubted if anyone has done more for music students in Brainerd where sincere and competent music teachers are all too few. Even though they were many, Mrs. Johnstone's work would stand apart proven by its results.

The program was concluded with a paraphrase by Liszt upon the familiar theme of the Rigoletto quartet. Its scintillating brilliancy lent a bright ending to one of the pleasantest musical evenings it has been Brainerd's privilege to enjoy.

Pleases Eye, Tickles Palate

When one's appetite is out of sorts and nothing appeals, the main object is to first offer some nourishing dainty that will please the eye and tickle the palate. Natural fruit juices, rightly sweetened and blended with easily digested gelatine, daintily served, are tempting when everything else fails. Sunlite-Jell with its five fruit flavors—lemon, orange, cherry, raspberry, strawberry—and mint, makes it easy to prepare the most enticing and satisfying morsels. They please hearty appetites as well as the dainty ones. Order of your grocer and gain a new conception of these dainty, delicious health-giving foods. —Advt.

"Jim" Penney, a young man from Missouri, opened a small dry goods, clothing, furnishings and shoe store in Kemmerer, then a small mining camp in Wyoming. It was known as the "Golden Rule Store."

1907

Five years later, the high ideals of storekeeping which Mr. Penney introduced and faithfully maintained, had won such signal success that two more stores were opened, operating with the same high principles.

1912

Ten years later, these business ideals had so faithfully served the public that 34 stores had been opened and were in successful operation, all known as the "Golden Rule Stores." Service was being rewarded.

1917

Fifteen years later, the greatest expansion of the business up to that time took place—50 new stores were opened, making a total of 177 stores. In 1913, the business name was changed to the J. C. Penney Company.

1922

Twenty years later, the number had been more than doubled in five years, giving a total of 371 stores operated from coast to coast and serving more than a million homes—a Nation-wide Institution of Department Stores.

1927

Twenty-five years, at the conclusion of quarter of a century of public service, the business is comprised of 773 stores with enough more planned to open in the Fall to well pass 800. And expansion goes on!

This phenomenal expansion and growth is due primarily to the keen appreciation the public has shown of the efforts the Company always has made to serve well and faithfully. Continued growth is assured.

1902

A SMALL dry goods, shoe and clothing store was opened in a small town in the West, serving a few hundred homes.

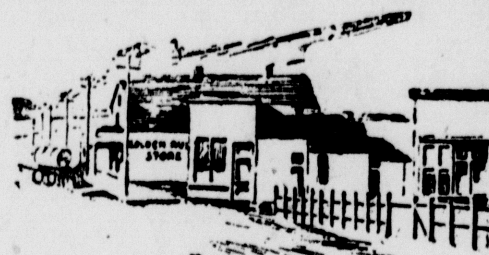

1927

THE one small store has grown into a Nation-wide Institution of 773 Department Stores, serving millions of homes.

A quarter of a century of achievement ... a period of human helpfulness

BEGINNING April 1st, we will celebrate with pride and thankfulness, our Twenty-fifth or Silver Anniversary

ORIGINAL STORE AT KEMMERER, WYO.

—with pride for the privilege of serving the American public—with thankfulness for the generous response that has come to our effort.

SINCE the Spring day in April, 1902, when Mr. Penney inaugurated, in a small and inconspicuous manner, a Retail Shopping Service which was destined to become one of Nation-wide Helpfulness, a quarter of a century has passed.

It has been a period of notable growth and expansion, of winning millions of friends, of serving them faithfully, of basing achievement upon the good will of mutual satisfaction.

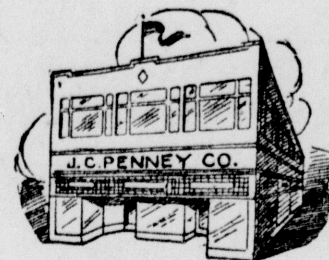

DURING all these eventful years, we have been mindful of our responsibilities to the legion of patrons who have contributed and are today contributing, so continuously and so generously, in helping making our Service one not of profit alone but of the confidence that rests on good will.

NEVER for a moment have we knowingly wavered from the responsibility of this relationship. It has always been to us an inspiration to reach out for greater things, that we might be the better prepared to render a Service which should prove to be more and more beneficial to the increasing numbers who come to us.

NOT only is that one little Golden Rule Store of 1902—now itself grown to far larger proportions—still serving the people in and about Kemmerer, Wyoming, but there has sprung from its applied principles and policies, others to a present total of 773 Department Stores, scattered over 46 States.

ALL these are children of what we now affectionately term The Mother Store; all happily operate in the Service of the public under the name of the J. C. Penney Company.

THE Founder of this Organization—Mr. James C. Penney—built in his pioneering days more enduring and substantially than he knew.

HIS ideals and practices—square treatment alike to all always—and the extent to which he packed Value into every Dollar of purchase—these constitute the pattern according to which this enormous business has been shaped and which has caused it to grow until it has now become a Nation-wide Institution, serving more than 3,000,000 homes.

THE dynamic selective and buying power of the Company created by its tremendous volume of cash sales, which in 1926, amounted to $115,682,737.86, gives a saving power to the public which means much to the thrift and to the economic life of the people of every community where it operates a Store.

AT this milestone in our history, we pause only long enough to express our thanks to the great American people for their continued confidence and appreciation of our efforts in their behalf and to offer the assurance that in the future as in the past we shall strive to serve not only well but better and better with each succeeding business day.

The sales of the "Golden Rule Store" of Mr. Penney, the first year amounted to $28,898.11—a fine appreciation of the few hundred people who then comprised the little mining camp at Kemmerer, Wyoming.

1907

Five years later, with three stores, the sales amounted to $166,313.82—substantial evidence of the continued appreciation of the principles and policies under which Mr. Penney's storekeeping was directed.

1912

Ten years later, with 34 stores, the business passed two million dollars in sales—attracting to it the fact that its operative plan was a great boon to people desiring to practice thrift in their purchases.

1917

Fifteen years later, with 177 stores the public was so generously appreciative of the efforts of the business as to favor it with purchases totalling $14,880,965.22. In 1913, it became the J. C. Penney Company.

1922

Twenty years later, with 371 stores, sales amounted to $49,035,729.06—closing a five-year period which had been notable for having successfully weathered the World War and witnessed continued growth and expansion to several new states.

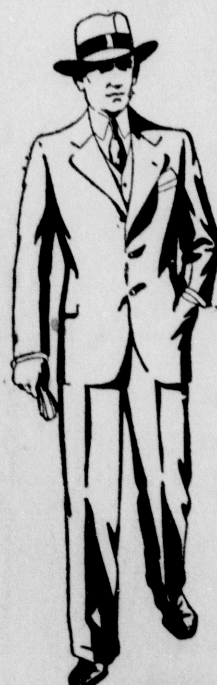

1927

Twenty-five years later, with 773 stores in operation and more to be opened in the Fall, sales are expected to reach $150,000,000. Sales passed the One Hundred Million mark in 1926.

Had the J. C. Penney Company been less diligent in giving Quality, Style, Value, Service, at Lowest Possible Price, and serving everybody alike always, this success could not have been realized.

ELKS' HOME IS CITY'S FINEST BUILDING

Building Committee Accept New Building; Keys Are Turned Over

GRAND OPENING PLANNED

Two Clothing Stores, Barber Shop and Restaurant Occupy
Store Spaces

Gracing the corner of Sixth and Laurel streets, the New Elks Home now completed and ready for occupancy is without a doubt the finest, most modern building in the city of Brainerd, cosmopolitan in effect and an improvement lauded by every single person in this city.

The Elks Lodge, the building committee of the lodge, the contractors, and the architects are to be congratulated for their part in shaping into reality this fine building.

The building committee has accepted the building and the keys have been turned over to them. The house and social committee are making preparations for a grand official opening which is expected to take place shortly after Lent.

Store space in the building is occupied by the Peterson Clothing Store, John M. Bye Clothing Store, "The Booterie," the Elks Barber Shop and "Archers," restaurant and confectionery store to be opened soon.

The new building contains space in the basement for modern bowling alleys, consisting of four alleys with a spectator's balcony, also toilets and locker space. The entrance is obtained by way of Laurel street. This space will be leased to desirable tenants. The balance of the basement is taken up by storage rooms for the main floor stores, by the boiler and fuel room, and service rooms for the club and hotel.

The main, or first floor has three stores besides a barber shop on Laurel street and a restaurant on Sixth street. The restaurant has a private dining room and a modern kitchen with modern ventilation. Besides the Sixth street entrance it can also be entered by way of Laurel street.

The barber shop is planned for a four chair shop with a beauty parlor in the rear. The shop can be entered directly from the street or from the main floor lobby. All of these rooms have terrazzo floors laid with imported marble of four colors.

The entrance to the club and hotel rooms is made on Laurel street. An iron marquise enriches the entrance. Terrazzo stairs lead to the lobby of the hotel on the second floor. This lobby, which faces Laurel street is 16 feet by 48 feet in size. Off the lobby is a ladies' parlor with toilet facilities for the use of the guests.

In connection with the lobby there is a secretary's office and toilet facilities for the men.

At the corner of Sixth and Laurel streets on the second floor is the main lounge for the club rooms which is entered from the hotel lobby. The lounge has a fireplace nook and storage rooms. The lounge, lobby, and toilet rooms all have terrazzo floors of imported marble.

The billiard room is entered to the left of the lounge fireplace. The card room is immediately to the rear of this room and has a buffet bar and kitchenette in connection. Both of these rooms face on Sixth street. There are also coat rooms and candidate, equipment and ante rooms. These rooms are decorated with ornamental plaster walls and ceilings and have rubberstone floors.

The lodge room, also on the second floor, extends through to the roof with a ceiling height of 20 feet. Entrance is made to the right of the fireplace through a small tyler's room. This room has three means of exit which is required by law.

The interior treatment of the lodge room is Italian. The lower side walls to the height of eight feet have an antique stone effect. Above, ornamental plaster pilasters rise to the ceiling. The ceiling has ten ornamental beams. Small windows are placed high on the side walls. These very artistic windows were made in England. The floor of this room has been designed for the dancer's feet, laid up in parquet design with two thicknesses of best grade maple flooring which will act as a wonderful spring cushion. Cafeteria luncheons can be served from the card room kitchenette directly into the lodge room. A motion picture booth is also provided, and a modern system of ventilation will completely change the air of the room every ten minutes.

The balance of the second floor and the entire third floor is devoted to hotel rooms, thirty three in number. In connection with these rooms there are eleven private shower baths, seven connecting baths, three private baths. The rest of the rooms have toilets and lavatories. All the bath and toilet rooms have white terrazzo floors with sanitary bases and walls.

All of the corridors and hotel rooms will be fully carpeted with figured patterns. Every room is provided with an ample sized clothes closet.

Besides rooms the hotel part contains service stairs and service rooms of all description, necessary for operation of a hotel of this size.

The construction of the building is such that it is as completely fire proof as can be erected.

Great care has been taken in placing the foundation footings. The exterior presents a clean appearance.

Misses Esther Fogelstrom and Jennie Beck Give Vocal Duet Numbers

The Lions club departed from its usual routine last evening and held the regular weekly meeting at the Brainerd Gas office. Luncheon was served by the ladies of the Presbyterian church.

Several matters of interest were taken up at the business session preceding the entertainment program, among which was the proposition of again extending an invitation to the fifth district organization of Lions clubs to hold the 1928 convention at Brainerd. A committee was appointed to look into the matter and report at the next meeting. If it is decided to make a bid for this convention, a large delegation of Lions will journey to Fargo in May and present the invitation to the district convention being held there at that time.

The local club made a strong bid for this convention at Winnipeg last June, but were outnumbered by the Fargo representatives and consequently lost the 1927 meeting to Fargo. It is hoped that the tables may be reversed this year.

After the business session the members were entertained by the two vocal duet numbers given by Miss Esther Fogelstrom and Miss Jennie Beck.

W. D. McKay of the Water and Light department then was called upon and presented a number of facts regarding the operation of his department. So interesting was Mr. McKay's talk that ten minutes additional time was granted to him to complete his subject, after which a vote of thanks was extended to the ladies for the wonderful luncheon prepared.

SYNOPSIS

Bob Ward, college student, works as a dancing partner for rich women in a New Jersey roadhouse. There he meets the prettiest, sweetest girl he has ever laid eyes on—Sally, the cigarette girl. Reciprocating his interest, she wears him against the mysterious and beautiful Mrs. Hammond, habitué of the inn, who finds her "thrill" in "hunting" Bob for her lovelorn apartment. Mrs. Hammond tells Bob she is an author, secretly in search of color. He stoutly declares he hasn't believed the gossip about her.

CHAPTER XIII.—Continued.

Mrs. Hammond had led Bob Ward, gently and insidiously, to commit himself in the matter of trusting her motives; to voice his candid opinion that she was a "square shooter." What more could she want? She continued, ingratiatingly:

"But women of my peculiar position are bound to come under the suspicion of little and evil minds, so I am going to trust to your innate sense of fitness, Bob, and speak quite frankly. To begin with, you are too nice a boy to be working at such a place as the Palisado Inn—"

"It's the only way I could find to go on and fulfill my ambition!"

"Then I shall open a way to you to do so without demeaning yourself. I am hopelessly rich, Bob. But I am not going to offer you charity. I am merely going to offer you, as a sister would, the loan of plenty of money to finish your schooling and get set in business—and the use of an apartment, meantime, to take care of your living needs and comforts!"

"Yes, I have heard that you keep a secret apartment."

"An apartment!"

Instantly all his former doubts and fears of this ravishing creature flocked back to reassail him.

He remembered everything that anyone had said. Mazie's sneers about the lovelorn, that he would be asked to share, sooner or later, if Mrs. Hammond liked him! Had the innuendoes been justified, after all? Was Mrs. Hammond proposing a dishonorable arrangement with him?

Hardly daring to breathe, his mouth a bit ajar, Bob stared wide-eyed into Mrs. Hammond's face.

Mrs. Hammond bore the scrutiny with entire self-possession.

"I know exactly what's running through your mind, Bob!" she chuckled, with a superbly simulated air of lightness. She was boldly resolved upon spiking all his guns, upon spilling all the wind out of his sails, by anticipating his knowledge and his arguments. She leaned toward him, her big eyes wide with feigned virtue. "Someone has warned you against this very thing! A 'lovelorn,' I suppose they called it!"

Bob nodded dully. He remembered that but a few moments before he had burst forth with stout declaration of belief in the innocence of her motives in all things. As a gentleman, as a man of character, he could not now betray a flicker of constancy in his faith. He would be outspoken.

"Yes, Delia, I have heard that you keep a secret apartment on Park Avenue. If it is true it is certainly puzzling. Why should a woman like you, of high social standing and character, want such a place?"

"So they have even traced me down to that?" She shrugged her beautiful shoulders contemptuously. "What creatures!"

Impulsively she laid a slender hand on Bob's knee and stared at an injured, appealing manner full into his troubled face.

"Bob, surely their methods condemn their words! They have told their version. Let me tell mine. Naturally, people of immoral calibre jump to the most disgusting conclusion, always. But the simple and whole truth of this matter is that I have hired this apartment, with the full consent and knowledge of my husband, in order that I may pursue my literary work and sociological studies in the seclusion that my temperament demands. What with the press of social responsibilities, the constant interruptions of an elaborate household, the petty worries of life, I could not work at home without grave and unceasing distractions. This secrecy insures my privacy, guarantees unobtruded solitude and quiet in which to work. There is nothing strange about it. Bob, I am an author. As an author, I need certain desirable working conditions. Of course, you know that this is the case with many writers. Most of them have been put to some extreme to gain what I might call time freedom. Surely you know how Nathaniel Hawthorne, for instance, went up into his attic on a rope ladder—and pulled the ladder up after him. I have no rope ladder, and even if I went into the garret they'd ring a telephone extension for me! So I am forced to my present plan. There, Bob, my dear boy friend, you have my whole story!"

Bob had listened attentively; his last doubts vanishing into thin air as her explanation unfolded in all its reasonableness and plausibility. Now Mrs. Hammond—lightly, yet with an artfully feigned note of earnestness which seemed to show how much she hung on his answer, how much she trusted his common sense—laughed and declared:

"Really, Bob, I ask you again, is my scheme so very strange? You must choose between the malign whisperings of a very poor grade of evil-monger and my story. Come, boy, take your pick! Do you still think I am a horrid witch, an ogre, seeking to lure unsuspecting young innocents into my secret and fearful castle, to encompass their moral destruction?"

There was an elusive note of sarcasm in her merry laugh; a challenge, very carefully sent forth, to his sanity, to his intelligence.

Bob, completely taken in, sat bolt upright and exclaimed:

"Of course I don't believe any of the vile gossip I've heard. I never believed it. I know you're not an ogre!" Bob joined with Mrs. Hammond in a hearty laugh. It was all so ridiculous. He went on, chuckling: "I can imagine, though, Delia, that you are the most temperamental sort of an author. You seem so high strung. You bet I know how much you want quiet and privacy to work. Gosh, you'd go crazy in Mrs. O'Sullivan's boarding house, where Fred and Arch and the rest of the tramps are liable to break out singing any hour of the night. I often wish I could have a quiet place to study."

Mrs. Hammond relaxed her perfect body against the perfect cushions of her perfect automobile—and laughed in that low, gleeful way of hers, deep in her velvety throat, for she was perfectly happy. She had won the first skirmish with his moral quibbles. The main thing was to get him into her apartment. Once he was established there she could unloose the rest of her bag of tricks and vamp him down to the point where he would bend to her passionate will; where his emotions and passions, and the clean, strong body of his young manhood which she coveted, would all be plastic putty in her warm hands.

She closed her eyes for a blissful moment, to quiet the quivers that were tingling in her veins. Presently she said:

"After all, Bob, you see, it will be a strictly business proposition. You are to consider my help in the nature of an advance royalty on your brilliant career; a loan to be adjusted later on."

While the generalities of the proposition had found approval in Bob's mind, there were certain details that caused him growing uneasiness.

"But, if you live here, Delia, alone—how can I—will it be—right?" he stammered.

Again her musical laugh filled the luxurious interior of the limousine.

"You silly lad," she chided. "Of course I don't live there. I told you that I merely use it for a sort of working place, a studio. It's just a tiny thing, you know. Pretty, though. You'll have it all to yourself, except that after a while I may ask your permission to come and work there at times during the day. Not yet, though, because I'm occupied with unavoidable social burdens for the present. There is maid service. You'll have nothing to do or worry about except winning honors with your degree and thus making me proud of you and justifying my faith in you."

Robbed of Rest

Duluth man routs rheumatism. Recovers former rugged health. Thanks Tanlac for aid

Mr. Frank Wilkins, respected resident of Duluth, Minn., lives at 1801 W. Superior St. For many years he suffered acutely from rheumatism. He tells this straightforward story: "I was so sick with rheumatism at times, that I could hardly leave my bed. I tried electric treatments, and various remedies, but none gave me relief."

"The first real help I got was from Tanlac. After taking four or five bottles I was very much improved and could go about my duties without any trouble whatever. My appetite which was very poor, improved rapidly and I was able to eat anything I cared for. Tanlac drove the rheumatism from my system entirely. It fixed me up in short order. I always recommend Tanlac, and always will, for it was a great help to me."

"I give Tanlac full credit for helping me win my fight for health, and for the wonderful comeback I've made. I'm strong for it."

Mighty "Ben Hur" in Pictures Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, in arrangement with A. L. Erlanger, Charles Dillingham and F. Ziegfeld, Jr., offers the world's mightiest attraction at the Park theatre tonight for one performance only, at 8:15 o'clock in the celebrated picture version of "Ben Hur" to which all New York has crowded for many months and which equally delighted Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia in its many record-breaking runs. This wonderful picturization cost $4,000,000, three years time and the labors of 150,000 persons in Italy and California.

It culminated in the construction of the gigantic Colosseum and race-course of Antioch and in the filming thereon of the thrilling Chariot race. Instead of eight horses and the old-time mechanical illusion on the stage show, the new and greater "Ben Hur" shows twelve teams of four horses each racing the seven laps of a great arena with all the hairbreadth escapes and spills

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom banish Piles and for the very good reason that the cause is inside—bad circulation in affected parts, veins are flabby and bowel walls weakened.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must first free the circulation—send fresh, healthy blood to the raw, sensitive membranes. Internal treatment is one safe method. Ointments and other external treatments can't give lasting relief.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and it has proven successful in thousands of cases—so successful that now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists under a money back guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at H. P. Dunn's, Johnson's Pharmacy, who will promptly refund the purchase price if you are dissatisfied. —Adv.

Costs Little and Overcomes Trouble Almost Over Night

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Menthosulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a jar of Rowles Menthosulphur from any good druggist. —Adv.

"MATINEE LADIES," with May McAvoy, is a Warner Bros. picture production of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Bob Ward, college student, works as a dancing partner for rich women in a New Jersey roadhouse. There he meets the prettiest, sweetest girl he has ever laid eyes on—Sally, the cigarette girl. Reciprocating his interest, she scorns him against the mysterious and beautiful Mrs. Hammond, habitué of the inn, who finds her "thrill" in "hunting" Bob for her loveliest apartment. Mrs. Hammond tells Bob she is an authoress, secretly in search of color. He stoutly declares he hasn't believed the gossip about her.

CHAPTER XIII.—Continued.

Mrs. Hammond had led Bob Ward, gently and insidiously, to commit himself in the matter of trusting her motives; to voice his candid opinion that she was a "square shooter." What more could she want? She continued, ingratiatingly:

"But women of my peculiar position are bound to come under the suspicion of little and evil minds, so I am going to trust to your innate sense of fineness, Bob, and speak quite frankly. To begin with, you are too nice a boy to be working at such a place as the Palisado Inn."

"It's the only way I could find to go on and fulfill my ambition!"

"Then I shall open a way to you to do so without demeaning yourself. I am hopelessly rich, Bob. But I am not going to offer you charity. I am merely going to offer you, as a sister would, the loan of plenty of money to finish your schooling and get set in business—and the use of an apartment, meantime, to take care of your living needs and comforts!"

"Yes, I have heard that you keep a secret apartment."

"An apartment!"

Instantly all his former doubts and fears of this ravishing creature flocked back to reassail him.

He remembered everything that anyone had said. Mazie's sneers about the loveliest, that he would be asked to share, sooner or later, if Mrs. Hammond liked him! Had the innuendoes been justified, after all? Was Mrs. Hammond proposing a dishonorable arrangement with him?

Hardly daring to breathe, his mouth a bit ajar, Bob stared wide-eyed into Mrs. Hammond's face.

Mrs. Hammond bore the scrutiny with entire self-possession.

"I know exactly what's running through your mind, Bob!" she chuckled, with a superbly simulated air of lightness. She was boldly resolved upon spiking all his guns, upon spilling all the wind out of his sails, by anticipating his knowledge and his arguments. She leaned toward him, her big eyes wide with feigned virtue: "Someone has warned you against this very thing! A 'loveliest,' I suppose they called it!"

Bob nodded dully. He remembered that but a few moments before he had burst forth with stout declaration of belief in the innocence of her motives in all things. As a gentleman, as a man of character, he could not now betray a fickle tack of constancy in his faith. He would be outspoken.

"Yes, Delia, I have heard that you keep a secret apartment on Park Avenue. If it is true it is certainly puzzling. Why should a woman like you, of high social standing and character, want such a place?"

"So they have even traced me down to that?" She shrugged her beautiful shoulders contemptuously. "What creatures!"

Impulsively she laid a slender hand on Bob's knee and stared with an injured, appealing manner full into his troubled face.

"Bob, surely their methods condemn their words! They have told their version. Let me tell mine. Naturally, people of immoral calibre jump to the most disgusting conclusion, always. But the simple and whole truth of this matter is that I have hired this apartment with the full consent and knowledge of my husband, in order that I may pursue my literary work and sociological studies in the seclusion that my temperament demands. What with the press of social responsibilities, the constant interruptions of an elaborate household, the petty worries of life, I could not work at home without grave and unceasing distractions. This secrecy insures my privacy, guarantees my undivided solitude and quiet in which to work. There is nothing strange about it, Bob. I am an author. As an author, I need certain desirable working conditions. Of course, you know that this is the case with many writers. Most of them have been put to some extreme to gain what I might call time freedom. Surely you know how Nathaniel Hawthorne, for instance, went up into his attic on a rope ladder and pulled the ladder up after him. I have no rope ladder, and even if I went into the garret they'd ring a telephone extension for me! So I am forced to my present plan. There, Bob, my dear boy friend, you have my whole story!"

Bob had listened attentively; his last doubts vanishing into thin air as her explanation unfolded in all its reasonableness and plausibility. Now Mrs. Hammond—lightly, yet with an artfully feigned note of earnestness which seemed to show how much she hung on his answer, how much she trusted his common sense—laughed and declared:

"Readily, Bob, I ask you again, is my scheme so very strange? You must choose between the malign whisperings of a very poor grade of evilmonster and my story. Come, boy, take your pick! Do you still think I am a horrid witch, an ogre, seeking to lure unsuspecting young innocents into my secret and fearful castle, to encompass their moral destruction?"

There was an elusive note of sarcasm in her merry laugh; a challenge, very carefully sent forth, to his sanity, to his intelligence. Bob, completely taken in, sat bolt upright and exclaimed:

"Of course I don't believe any of the vile gossip I've heard. I never believed it. I know you're not an ogre!" Bob joined with Mrs. Hammond in a hearty laugh. It was all so ridiculous. He went on, chuckling: "I can imagine, though, Delia, that you are the most temperamental sort of an author. You seem so high strung. You bet I know how much you want quiet and privacy to your Gosh, you'd go crazy in Mrs. O'Sully's boarding house, where Freddy and Arch and the rest of the tramps are liable to break out singing any hour of the night. I often wish I could have a quiet place to study."

Mrs. Hammond relaxed her perfect body against the perfect cushions of her perfect automobile—and laughed in that low, gleeful way of hers, deep in her velvety throat, for she was perfectly happy. She had won the first skirmish with his moral quibbles. The main thing was to get him into her apartment. Once he was established there she could unloose the rest of her bag of tricks and vamp him down to the point where he would bend to her passions as will; where his emotions and passions, and the clean, strong body of his young manhood which she coveted, would all be plastic putty in her warm hands.

She closed her eyes for a blissful moment, to quiet the quivers that were tingling in her veins. Presently she said:

"After all, Bob, you see, it will be a strictly business proposition. You are to consider my help in the nature of an advance royalty on your brilliant career; a loan to be adjusted later on."

While the generalities of the proposition had found approval in Bob's mind, there were certain details that caused him growing uneasiness.

"But, if you live here, Delia, alone—how can I—will it be—right?" he stammered.

Again her musical laugh filled the luxurious interior of the limousine.

"You silly lad," she chided. "Of course I don't live there. I told you that I merely use it for a sort of working place, a studio. It's just a tiny thing, you know. Pretty, though. You'll have it all to yourself, except that after a while I may ask your permission to come and work there at times during the day. Not yet, though, because I'm occupied with unavoidable social burdens for the present. There is maid service. You'll have nothing to do or worry about except winning honors with your degree and thus making me proud of you and justifying my faith in you."

Duluth man routs rheumatism. Recovers former rugged health. Thanks Tanlac for aid

Mr. Frank Wilkins, respected resident of Duluth, Minn., lives at 1801 W. Superior St. For many years he suffered acutely from rheumatism. He tells this straightforward story: "I was so sick with rheumatism at times, that I could hardly leave my bed. I tried electric treatments, and various remedies, but none gave me relief."

"The first real help I got was from Tanlac. After taking four or five bottles I was very much improved and could go about my duties without any trouble whatever. My appetite which was very poor, improved rapidly and I was able to eat anything I cared for. Tanlac drove the rheumatism from my system entirely. It fixed me up in short order. I always recommend Tanlac, and always will, for it was a great help to me."

"I give Tanlac full credit for helping me win my fight for health, and for the wonderful comeback I've made. I'm strong for it."

Tanlac is nature's own remedy.

Mighty "Ben Hur" in Pictures Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, in arrangement with A. L. Erlanger, Charles Dillingham and F. Ziegfeld, Jr., offers the world's mightiest attraction at the Park theatre tonight for one performance only, at 8:15 o'clock in the celebrated picture version of "Ben Hur" to which all New York has crowded for many months and which equally delighted Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia in as many record-breaking runs. This wonderful picture production cost $4,000,000, three years time and the labors of 150,000 persons in Italy and California.

It culminated in the construction of the gigantic Circus Maximus and race-course of Antioch and in the filming thereon of the thrilling Chariot race. Instead of eight horses and the old-time mechanical illusion of the stage show, the new and greater "Ben Hur" shows twelve teams of four horses each racing the seven laps of a great arena with all the hairbreadth escapes and spills

Piles Disappear

No Cutting or Salves Needed External treatments seldom banish Piles and for the very good reason that the cause is inside—bad circulation in affected parts, veins are flabby and bowel walls weakened. To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send fresh, healthy blood to the raw, sensitive membranes. Internal treatment is one safe method. Ointments and other external treatments can't give lasting relief.

J. S. Leonhardt, M. D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and it has proven successful in thousands of cases—so successful that now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists under a money back guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at H. P. Dunn's, Johnson's Pharmacy, who will promptly refund the purchase price if you are dissatisfied.
